One of them boasts that it was "establashed in 1856." "The original Harry Jen-nings." who established it, was famous as a times a week, and in some places oftener.

A COCKBOACH HUNTER. Harry Jennings. He was in charge of the supply department of the New York Life Insurance Company, but he used to enjoy the sport of rat-catching in company with Mr. Jennings of a night, and when Jennings died he purchased the business "established in RAT-TRAPPER AT WORK. He employs seven practical rat-catchers two reach exterminators and a clerk who is a sort of chemist and druggist to dogs, cats, roaches and mice as well.

The clerk is Walter Price, a blonde-mus. tached young man who began with Harry Jennings when but a lad.

Your modern practical rat-catcher goes about his work in a very business-like way. He carries a big canvas bar with a copperriveted, russet-leather tottom, and in it is his

One rat-catcher of New York has 12,000 traps set for game at the present moment. They are located in 150 hotels, business estab ments, bospitals and restaurants.

There are 150 of them in the Windson Hotel and nearly as many more in the Mur-

It is the rat-catcher's business to attend to his traps and he is successful just in proportion to his skill in learning the ways of the rat and his abiding place.

"It's quite a job to find out all the runs of the rate in our buildings," says Mr. Price.

Besides, rats are sly fellows and you have to fool 'em. It they won't walk into an imported English trap just try one of Harry Jennings's inventions on 'em. The French wire traps will do for hungry rats, but you can't do effective work in a hotel with 'em.

"No one uses ferrets or dogs, in rat-catching nowadays. The ferret can't run up a as a rat can, and dogs are apt to'do mischief with their strength and eagerness." Mr. Price at this point gave an unconscious illustration of what he meant by exerting all his strength to remove Paddy, a sinister buildog, who literally hung over a big care in in his desire to " get at 'em."

There is never more than one buck rat in " said Price. " They are hard to catch,

King Behanzin, the celebrated warchief of the nation has signified his intention of coming here in person, and will hasten across the sea as soon as his difficulties with France is adjusted. The King will bring many rare products, Ivory, gold, palm oit, three-tailed menkeys and other curiosities.

But there is a string tied to the King's promise to come. He wants to set up his teitch temple, same as at home, and have human sacrifices three times a week. This difficulty has been taken under advisement.

STRONG CIGARS AND MILD. 3.00 PM The Wrapper Not a Safe Guide for Smokers.

A light eight is not always a light onethat is to say, light color does not invariably indicate light flavor. There is an impression to the contrary among smokers; and it is the invariable habit of nonsmokers to refer to a dark-skinned cigar as strong, malignant and diabolic.

Anti-tobaccours s have been known to 1802, made up as follows: short, sharp dissylable—"stinker." But all this is injustice, rank injustice, to tolacco, which is not rank by any means.

We now have it on the high authority We now have it on the high authority of the Cigar and Tobacco World, says the London Post, that the notion that a lightcolored cigar is mild is fallacious. The popularity of light wrappers is a mere fad, it seems. The fashion of smoking only blond cigats is a cruze for which there is no more justification than for bleaching raven hair.

It is the outgrowth of a belief that Hayana is the only city which should set the style; in tolonic class their which mann.

Mr. Dwyer Denies Being at Loggerheads with the Board.

REVIEW OF THE SITUATION

Reckless Jockeys Blamed for Accidents at the Gravesend Track Yesterday.

As was to be expected, Mr. Michael F.

Dwyer denies that he is at loggerheads with the Board of Control or that he is desirous of selling any of his stock in the Brooklyn Jockey Club. The writer yesterday ex-pressed doubts that Mr. Dwyer had in contemplation any such schemes as were attributed to him, and the prediction was correct. Court, Brooklyn, this morning.

spectable sum of $35,000. Again, Mr. Dwyer with his good stable of horses could win thousands or dollars in purses and bets at the hilltop track. It will be seen from this that Mr. Dwyer is affected by the Board of Control's Tuling more than any one cise. Taking the Tuling more than any one else. Taking the other side of the question, how-QUARANTINED MEN GO ASHORE ever, of what use would Longstreet, Kingston, Banquet and other great horses owned by Mr. Dwyer be if the Brooklyn plunger forsook the Board of Control tracks. It is like asking a hungry man whether he would prefer crackers and cheese to i luncheon at Delmonico's. Against se en months of mediocre racing at Guttenburg are arrayed six months of rich stakes and purses on the Board of Control tracks. Mr. Dwyer would be foolish, if this expression may be used, to forsake this rich feast for the poor fare at Guttenburg. Another story that is being actively circulated is that Mr. Dwyer contemplates purchasing the Hudson County Jockey Club stock held by Mr. Walbaum. This is as absurd as other rumors. Mr. Walbaum knows that he has a little gold mine in his stock and will hardly give it up, no matter what the feeling is against him. It is well known that Walbaum is not in harmony with the other members of the Big Four.

> Yesterday's racing was nothing if not sen sational. Three horses fell and were so badly injured that they had to be destroyed. of course some one was to blame, and the jockeys claim unanimously that young Midgely caused all the trouble. HERDS IN A PRAIRIE FIRE.

Young Midgely, the cause of these accidents, came back to the scales with a cut on the back of his head. He said that in failing his penny's hoof had caught him. This seemed until Joe Flynn acknowledged later in the day that it was the but tend of his will pan not Halpenny's noof that caused Midgely cut. Flynn roje stonenell, and he claimed that Midgely, who was on Wah Jim, was trying to throw him over the fence. So he hauled off and cracked Midgely over the head. Flynn should be careful of such tactics. A blow hard enough to cut might also have stunned Midgely.

It was common gessip all over the ring yesterday that Flyan had builed Stonenell, and that he and Owner Warnke were ruled off. No more unjust accusation was ever made. Stonenell kept bering in on the rail all the way up the stretch, and as Flyan tried to keen him straight it looked as though he was yanking the horse. It was precisely the same kind of a race that Major Domo ran at sheepshead itay in the Spring, when every one accused Hayward of crookedness.
